VOUS
DEVRIEZ Y ALLER,
MONSIEUR.

PLIC

An anatomical illustration showing a cross-section of a joint. A large, reddish, curved structure, likely a femur, is shown with several white, teardrop-shaped structures hanging from its surface. These structures are labeled as plicae. The background is a light pinkish-red color with small, circular, bubble-like patterns. The word 'PLIC' is written in a stylized, glowing blue font on the left side of the diagram.
